

Splinter Awl

Artifact Type: Splinter Awl

Material: Bone

Description: The diversity in size and type of awls signifies the many uses the tools must've had. A bone was split in half and the tip sharpened, and often bone splinters were made into awls by simply smoothing the natural point by grinding it on an abrader.

Nisqually Archives Department

4820 She-Nah-Num Drive S.E.

Olympia, WA 98513

Phone: (360) 456-5221