NISQUALLY INDIAN TRIBE

IMPORTANT WATER SERVICE NOTICE

BOIL WATER ADVISORY — AFFECTED SERVICE AREA

Issued: November 18, 2026 | Status: Precautionary water restrictions pending official clearance

Water service is expected to be restored this evening following the interruption. However, restoration of service does not mean the water has been cleared for drinking. Water samples are being tested, with results expected Friday morning.

UNTIL OFFICIAL NOTICE THAT THE WATER IS SAFE

- Use bottled water for drinking, making coffee and other beverages, brushing teeth, and preparing food.
- If a boil-water advisory has been issued for your address, bring tap water to a full rolling boil for 1 minute, then allow it to cool before use.
- Do not assume that water is safe simply because service or water pressure has returned.
- Follow any additional instructions issued by the water utility or public health officials.

WHO IS AFFECTED?

The community east of Muck Creek Drive SE, from Muck Creek to Kalama Creek, is currently experiencing a water service outage.

TESTING AND UPDATES

Water testing results are expected Friday morning, November 20. Restrictions remain in place until the authorized water system or public health officials issue an official notice lifting them. Updates will be shared through Tribal communications channels.

GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS

Tribal Government operations are scheduled to resume Thursday, November 19, at 8:00 AM, unless otherwise notified. Offices will close at noon for the funeral service and remain closed Friday, November 20.

QUESTIONS OR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Contact Tribal Administration for further information.